

Hounds Top OD, 79-75; Maher, Cummings Shine

Even if they had rehearsed it, play by play and shot by shot, the Hounds could not have opened their '63-'64 season more successfully. The 79-75 victory was one of the most dramatic played by any Loyola team in past years. The Green and Grey got off to a very slow start, however, Alex Cummings 35-foot jumper left the Hounds with a meagre 30 points at the close of the first half. The beginning of the third period gave little evidence of improvement. With two minutes gone, Old Dominion had increased its lead to 15 points while holding the Hound five scoreless. Then, with the score at 45-30, the dam broke.

Comeback Time

Loyola's hoopsters put on one of the finest "pressure" shows ever to be contained within the sturdy walls of our gym. It was certainly a team effort, with four of the five Hound starters hitting for double figures. The full court press Nap introduced in the second half was especially dependent on teamwork. This unusual and taxing defense was a major factor in the game. At first, at least, it shocked the Monarchs into submission.

Moher and Compony

All nine of the Hounds who took the floor last Saturday night contributed a great deal to the victory. But one man, Marty Maher, was outstanding. His spectacular driving one-hander accounted for twelve of the Hound points. He also swished nine from the foul line and did a fine job of pulling the Hounds together on offense.

Rebounds

A sore point in Hound teams of the past has been rebounding ability. Bill Carew, Larry Stevenson, and Mike McCarthy did a most reputable job on the boards last week much to the delight of Loyola fans. The tall trio also responded to the call with twenty-six markers. Carew got fifteen, Stevenson seven, and McCarthy four.

Ball-Handlers

Alex Cummings and Billy Morris played extremely well-balanced games, putting in top-notch efforts both on offense and on defense. Al's tally of 17 was the second highest of the evening. Bill hit for 13. Rookie Jerry Fromm's cool-headed play in the last seconds was a welcome sight to Hound fans.

Marty Moher goes up high for two points!

Only Six Candidates In Frosh Elections

Ken Dawson, Chairman of the Elections Committee, has announced that freshman elections will be held on Friday, December 13 in the lobby of the Student Union Building from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Running for President are William Moeller and Charles Schleupner. Moeller is an A.B. political science major and Schleupner an A.B. pre-med major. Thomas Jefferson, a B.S. business administration major, and Phillip Lieske, a B.S. science major, are up for Vice-President.

The candidates for Class Representative are Richard Flemming, an A.B. political science major, and Joseph Dannenfelser, a B.S. math major.

Write Ins

The offices of Secretary and Treasurer are open for write-in ballots. The procedure for write-in is simply to write your choice for Secretary and Treasurer in the space provided on the ballot. The winning candidate will be approved upon election.

Arrangements are now in process to provide an opportunity for the candidates to meet in a face-to-face debate for the benefit of the voters.

Campaigning

If this election follows the pattern of years past there will be vigorous campaigning for the various offices. Campaigning is also permitted for the two offices for which there are no approved candidates.

This year's election features the smallest number of candidates in the past four years.

Poetry Contest Open to Students

The Rev. Henry St. C. Lavin, S.J., Chairman of the English Department announced today the procedure to be observed for submitting entries for this year's student poetry contest sponsored by the Catholic Poetry Society of America.

February Deadline

All students are eligible to enter, and entries may be submitted to any member of the English Department in person or through the faculty mailboxes. The deadline for the submission of entries is the first week in February. Entrants may submit as many poems as they wish, but each poem should be on a separate sheet with the writer's name clearly indicated.

Prize Medal

The Catholic Poetry Society of America annually awards a gold medal on approximately forty college campuses. The campus winner also receives a year's subscription to "Spirit," the magazine of the Society, and the winning poem is published in that magazine.

THE LONELY SIX. . . (l. to r.) Thomas Jefferson, William Moeller, Joseph Dannenfelser, Phillip Lieske, Charles Schleupner, and Richard Fleming.

Junior Party To Feature Two Bands

The Junior Class is holding the first class party of the year tonight at 9 o'clock. The location of this social affair is at the Polish Home at 510 South Broadway, just one-half block south of Eastern Ave.

For the first time in the history of class parties two bands will be featured. Heading this continuity of music is the "dynamic" Rhythmaires with Jimmy Karentonis. Horace and the "exciting" Saratogas are the other group. It is hoped that by having two bands more members of the Junior Class will attend. Last year's party was sparsely supported.

Any profits will be used to help defray the cost of the Junior Prom which will be held on Friday, May 1, at the Sheraton-Belvedere Hotel.

Soph Slump

According to John O'Shea, President of the Sophomore Class, only 60 couples, out of the original 110 that claimed they were going, actually attended the class party held last Friday night. As can therefore be expected the class lost money. Partial blame is due to tickets only being allowed to be sold 10 days before the dance. John felt the rest was lack of interest.

More sophomore social functions are in the planning.

Frosh Debaters Lose Tournament

Freshman debaters Dick Fleming and Dan Kelleher represented Loyola at the Seventh Annual Jesuit Nationals Debate Tournament during the Thanksgiving holidays. The tournament was held at Loyola University in Chicago on November 29 and 30.

Loyola College's opponents included: Creighton University, Rockhurst College, Canisius College, University of Detroit, Regis College and Loyola University.

Our two freshmen defended the affirmative side in compiling a 2-4 record. The affirmative position proved to be the toughest side to defend with the top affirmative team finishing with a 4-2 record. There were no undefeated teams in the tournament, although Loyola of Chicago came close with a 5-1 record. This team, the top negative team of the tournament, suffered its only loss to the two freshmen from Loyola.

Although our debaters did not compile an outstanding won-lost tally, three of their four losses were by one point and the fourth by two points. The Greyhounds obviously did not win the tournament but this does not mean that the future looks dismal. It must be kept in mind that all the teams opposing Loyola were composed of upper-classmen.

Editorial Election?

Elsewhere in this issue the GREYHOUND is happy to announce the names of six candidates for freshman class offices. Those freshmen who have shown their willingness to run for office and serve their classmates and their school are to be congratulated.

The GREYHOUND is not so happy to announce the small number of candidates, the smallest number in four years. The class of '64 had 21 candidates for freshman office, the class of '65 twenty, and the class of '66 twelve.

We do not pretend to have the ultimate explanation for this lack of interest. However, we can indicate some possibilities. It could be that most of the frosh simply are not interested, but then if they were not interested we presume they would not be here. Maybe they do not yet feel themselves to be a real part of the College, but there is a simple solution to that: break up the high school cliques and join some activities. It cannot be deficiencies, because there were well over a hundred freshmen who received no deficiencies.

No, we do not know the full answer. But, we would nevertheless like to see a solution both for the good of the College and the good of the freshman class, for an uninterested class hurts the whole College. One decisive step toward a solution would be a 100% turnout on election day and a vigorous campaign among those who filed.

The Secretary and Treasurer spots are still open for anyone ambitious enough to start a write-in campaign for these two important offices. Get with it, frosh.

the Watchdog?!

Now that the holidays are over, the Dog would like to remind everyone that there are nine school days left before Christmas holidays. It's nice to go to school so that we can separate all these holidays.

The Dog was present at the basketball game last Saturday. Many loyal students made it to the game. Bill Bender also made it with his wife.

The Dog's comment on George Sunderland's ascot: Negative, Negative.

THE SPECTRUM

By Dennis Keating

The tragic death of a youthful President has threatened dangers that extend beyond the immediate effects of the assassination itself.

The most frightening aspect of the horrible events in Dallas is the prospect of an increasingly extremist reaction. This is seen in such varying proposals as those advocating: the empowering of the Secret Service to arrest suspected subversives and hold them indefinitely without charges, the direct control of the sale of weapons by the federal government, further restrictions on citizenship requirements, limitations upon the right of free speech, and others in a similar vein.

These are all short-sighted proposals based solely upon hysteria and expediency. And they all have one basic characteristic in common--they wouldn't either limit or eliminate the basic constitutional rights of the American citizen, as enumerated in the Constitution and Bill of Rights.

The shocking action of one Jack Rubinstein, alias Ruby, in denying an American citizen, however loathsome his heinous crime, his constitutional right to due process of law was the most striking indication of this type of reaction. The trial of Oswald by publicity on the part of the inept Dallas police department was another disturbing development. Such actions can only encourage further lawlessness and further the illusory attraction of simplest radicalism.

This can only ultimately lead to the disintegration of the American political process, for our system has always derived its strength from its moderating elements.

another contingent to the program "To Promote Good Will." They will be: Joe Baggs, Soapy Bubbles, Jim Taylor, and Ernie Gagin. Ernie will captain the team. We believe that this will be Loyola's last contribution to the cause of religious unity.

Klaus Lindenberg has just completed his new book on the psychology of parking violations, which he has researched the last four years. It has a special introduction by Father Bourbon and is entitled "I Owe The Dean $1200."

We heard that Bob Norton got a chance to go out with one of his girlfriends this past week. It was number 8,104,567,392.

It has come to the Dog's grammatical attention that Denny Hupp has mastered the art form of the complex sentence.

We hear that one of our students is studying under a renowned basketball coach. Phil Pierpont has been taking lessons from Red Auerbach, as evidenced last Saturday's game.

Natators to Invade South; Wrestling Begins Saturday

Since the resounding 80-13 victory over St. Peter's, the Hound swimmers have been pointing towards the rugged trip south on the 14th and 15th of December. On two successive days, the Hounds will meet the South Atlantic power, VMI, and Washington and Lee, both victims of Loyola's swim machine of a year ago. VMI fell by a 58-37 score, and Washington and Lee was sunk, 67-28. However, graduation has claimed many of the contributors to those two victories.

The meet with St. Peter's provided a testing ground for the new members who must develop rapidly if the Hounds are to hold their own with the tough competition ahead. Several responded well to their first challenge, but were not pushed. Brian Berger was impressive in the 200 yard butterfly, and Bill Bullough performed well in the 100 yard breast stroke. Murray Stephens and Rich Morgan established themselves as promising point getters in the breaststroke and free style events. Stiffer competition should improve their effectiveness.

Wrestling

Tomorrow night against Gallaudet at 6:45 P.M., the Loyola grapplers display their talent, spirit, and desire. The Hound nine is confident that this will be the first of many wins. If there is one chance this year for the Loyola fans to witness one of the best and most exciting teams ever, then this is the team, and tomorrow is the night.

Intramurals

by Phil Pierpont

At this writing there are only five teams left in the intramural ranks--three in the losers' bracket and two teams still undefeated.

Pigs Beat Ferns

During last week's games three teams were eliminated and two others played to a tie. On Wednesday the Porky Pigs stormed over the hapless Ferns 21-7. Bob Rossi passed to Gary Abrams for two TD's, and ran for the third. The Ferns only score came on a pass to Reynolds. The Far Tars handed the Animals their first loss 4-0, in a game marked by defensive excellence. All four Tar points were scored on safeties--perhaps not the most outstanding way to win--but still a victory. The Senior Clots led by Q.B. Dick Lattanzi, eliminated the Flops 12-6.

Clots Tie Animals

On Friday the Clots played the newly defeated Animals to a 6-6 tie. They will have played this past Wednesday to decide their tie, and the winner will meet the Moms. Also on Friday, the Moms eliminated the Porky Pigs in a game decided by first downs. The Rec and Far Tars also played earlier this week. The loser of that game will meet the survivor of the Moms-Animal-Clot encounter.

Basketball

Intramural director, Nappy Doherty, announced that intramural basketball will start this week. Nearly twenty teams have been entered including two former champions--The Polar Bears, who won in 1962, and the Mavericks, who won last year. If the past is any guide, competition will be keen and this year's championship will be won not by one of the favorites but by a new team. Regardless of this year's outcome, the GREYHOUND wished the best to all.

Bish Baker and Mel Kodenski square off as Butch Emmett keeps time.
